

Associate Lecturer/ Lecturer In Aboriginal Health Workforce (Indigenous Applicants Only)

Department of Rural Health,
Melbourne Medical School
Faculty of Medicine, Dentistry and Health Sciences
The University of Melbourne,
Australia

Only Indigenous Australians are eligible to apply as this position is exempt under the Special Measure Provision, Section 12 (1) of the Equal Opportunity Act 2011 (Vic).

This fixed term position (to 31 December 2018) will be based in Shepparton.

The Department of Rural Health strategic objectives include supporting the development, expansion and expertise of the Aboriginal health workforce in northern Victoria. Currently, the Department of Rural Health is expanding its programs in Aboriginal health in both teaching and research. The work of the department includes supporting tertiary education of students who are Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander, facilitating training of professionals working in Aboriginal Health and research with community partners. The focus of this position will be on workforce development in Aboriginal organisations.

You will concentrate on workforce development of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people in a range of health settings. This will require consultation with these organisations, facilitating training where appropriate and supporting workforce development as identified by these organisations. In addition, contribution to other teaching, research and projects at the Department of Rural Health will be required.

Part-time or full-time hours are negotiable, and there are many other University benefits to enjoy:
